The Flu is Here: What Schools Can Do

- Be Aware of Symptoms: fever, headache, fatigue, cough, sore throat, and body aches. Make sure parents know the symptoms and the district policy on keeping students at home.
- Hygiene: promote covering coughs and sneezes with a tissue or elbow and avoid touching eyes, nose, or mouth.
- Hand Washing: ensure there is time to wash hands correctly and have hand sanitizers available, especially before eating.
- Clean and Disinfect: commonly used areas and frequently touched surfaces. Many bacteria and viruses can live on surfaces for some time, including those that cause flu.

January 2015
David Schmitz, Food Service Director, has been leading the way by working with students to develop creative menu options including whole grain pizza made from scratch daily. What’s their favorite? Chicken Broccoli Pizza! In addition, guest chefs are invited to feature new menu items like Gnocchi or Fish Tacos with Mango Salsa. Each day there are six different varieties of stir-fry Asian dishes available. Middle school students have recently created large paper mache food items to brighten up the cafeteria. David said the most successful partnerships have been with the district’s Future Farmers of America (FFA) Chapter and a local grower. For more information contact David at dschmitz@nevada.k12.ia.us

Empowered Parents for School Wellness Workshop Materials

Iowa Team Nutrition partnered with the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics Foundation to develop workshops for parents to empower them with information about school meals and school wellness. They are designed to be co-led by a Registered Dietitian Nutritionist (RDN) and the Food Service Director.

The developed materials have been piloted in 15 Iowa schools and include a leader guide, handouts, and a myth and fact activity. Does your school have a parent meeting coming up? Looking for articles to feature in a parent newsletter? Let us know and we would be happy to assist in the preparation. Click here.
