Parent Story

Scott Stran

Aaron was born with Fragile X syndrome, a genetic disorder that causes development delays. Their pediatrician told them about Early ACCESS. Early ACCESS helped them get the therapies Aaron needed and helped identify other resources available through DHS. He received in-home speech therapy and physical therapy, as well as special shoes that were needed due to the tendons in his ankles. Scott stated that Early ACCESS gave them the tools to help them know what to do outside of sessions, and they are extremely happy with everything Early ACCESS has done for them. Aaron is able to attend preschool full time this year.

After Aaron was tested, the Stran’s discovered that their two older children were also born with Fragile X syndrome. Their oldest daughter was too old for Early ACCESS assistance, but their older son, Noah, was able to use Early ACCESS services.

Annual Performance Report

C-1 Timely Services presented by Cindy Weigel.

ICEA members were given a summary of state and regional data for timely services. In prior years, Early ACCESS used the date of the initial meeting as the start of services. At the last OSEP visit it was pointed out that the start date is the date each individual service begins. The ICEA discussed reasons for missing IFSP meetings and the distinction between family reasons and staff issues. It was noted that there were regional differences in the number of service delays due to family reasons. It was suggested that Early ACCESS state staff work with Regional Grantees to determine if these kinds of delays could be reduced.

C3 – Child Outcomes presented by Dee Gethmann

ICEA members reviewed the skill sets children need to succeed.
1. Social/emotional
2. Acquisition of knowledge
3. Use of appropriate behavior

IFSP teams rate each child’s development at entry and when they exit services. The two scores are compared to see if they have made progress. ICEA members broke into three groups to review each of the skill areas listed above. Their input will be included with Indicator CE Early Childhood Outcomes section of the APR.

Recommended targets for the two year extension were discussed. Motion made by Heather Moorman to increase 1.5% annually for each target; second by Michael Bergan. The motion passed unanimously.

Medicaid Update

Jim Donoghue
